There is no essential difference between the functions of a Department and those of a Secretariat. The difference in designation rather reflects the importance attached to the unit, a Department being considered more important than a Secretariat. The Departments and Secretariats are responsible for WTZ functions pertaining to the country or countries for which the unit is responsible. Each Department of Secretariat has one engineer or mere who handles the technical aspects of relations with the country or coun unit. In addition, it has one or more Sachbearbeite le for the administration of the unit. The Department Reports and Coordination is responsible for all relations with the trade delegations in East Germany of the USSR and the stallites, and for overall relations with the East German Ministries, State Secretariates and the East German Jentral V organizations. It is also reponsible for overall planning, as well as for the coordination of requests made by the individual Departments and Secretariats. It is furthermore responsible for the coordi cerning the work of the individual Departments and Travel Office is not a Department, properly spe a unit by itself within the WTZ. This office is responsible for preparing for and carrying out visits by East German scientific and technical personnel to the USSR and the satellites, and by scientific and technical personnel from these countries to East Germany. As far as visits of East German personnel are concerned, the WTZ is responsible for the procurement of passports and visas. With respect to East German personnel who are to be sent into foreign countries, the office also fulfills the functions of a Cadre Department, i.e. it investigates and reports on the political reliability of such personnel.

6. As may be deduced from the above indication, plans provide for an increase in the number of WTZ personnel and an improvement of its structural pattern. This reflects the fact that an ever-increasing importance is attached to the functions of the WTZ in East German government circles. The separation of the WTZ from ZAFT administration was the first step in this direction. There are plans, though not yet clearly defined, for reducing the personnel strength of Zaft in favor of an increased number of WTZ personnel.
